

Consultant Profile: Christl Bubik

Senior Consultant

Personal Background

In diagnostics and leadership development I support clients to develop their potentials and strengths to tackle personal challenges and change with a proactive and positive attitude. Having lived in different countries and cultures, my personal life has often been characterised by cutting roots and by adapting to new environments. Therefore, taking responsibility for oneself and to trust in one's own possibilities to progress and to be effective have become important guiding values to me which I integrate into my work with coaching clients and in leadership programs. I consider self-responsibility and self-love as an important basis to respect oneself and to live up to one's own strength as well as to establish positive and equal relationships with others. As a mother of two, I also try to convey these values to my children so that they may trustingly shape their own future.
